

2 MARCH
FEVER

At times bold, brassy and energetic, and at others introspective and improvisational, Jazz has intrigued and beguiled listeners for more than a century. Join Adelaide bands The Tunisian Nights Little Big Band and The Basement Sextet for a celebration of this enchanting art form. Featuring music made famous by artists like Frank Sinatra, Louis Armstrong, Michael Buble, Ella Fitzgerald, Herbie Hancock, Nat King Cole, and many many more.

Take a journey through iconic and timeless melodies, rich harmonies and inspiring artistry delivered by some of Adelaide's finest musicians.

The immediacy and intensity of big band arrangements, contrasted with the meditative self-expression of smaller format improvisation. A swingin good time!

TRAIL'S END

Trail's End is a one-act play that follows two brothers on a final camping trip together after their mother has recently passed. It explores issues of family and identity, particularly from the perspective of a young Aboriginal man struggling to reconnect with his culture. Brothers Sam and Jamie have had a tough year. After their mother passes, Sam comes to blows with his stepdad. Feeling untethered, Jamie decides to move overseas. Before he leaves, the boys go on one final camping trip together. As they journey through the bush they reflect on their experience as a mixed family. Jamie urges Sam to reconcile with his dad, but Sam knows he's about to do something unforgivable as he secretly carries the ashes of their mother in his backpack.

Trail's End is being produced by a small collective of emerging Aboriginal creatives.
