Strategic Planning Framework

City of Marion Strategic Management Framework, endorsed by Council, enables the survivability of the Community Vision – Towards 2040 and shows how the suite of plans provide strategic direction and operational focus to ensure that goals and outcomes are achieved in the most effective and efficient way. The Cultural Heritage Framework is one of Council's medium term strategies and plays a role in providing Council with specific objectives regarding cultural heritage within the City of Marion.

► STRATEGIC MANAGEMENT FRAMEWORK

Links to other plans & frameworks

The Cultural Heritage Framework recognises that cultural heritage includes natural heritage places and resources such as ecosystems, landscapes, landmarks, water features, parks, gardens and trees and the built environment. The Cultural Heritage Framework will be cross referenced with City of Marion's Strategic Management Framework, and other key documents as they are developed and renewed. This includes, but not limited to, Asset Management Plans, the Disability Access and Inclusion Plan, Reconciliation Action Plan and the Public Consultation Policy.

Purpose of the Cultural Heritage Framework

The role of a framework is to help organisations determine priorities and the strategies that are likely to help them achieve their visions for the future. It clarifies what is to be achieved and the approach to be taken but does not spell out specific activities. The purpose of the Cultural Heritage

Framework is to provide an overarching, prioritised approach and workable framework for the future planning and sustainable management of the City of Marion's diverse cultural heritage. It provides a framework in response to the 30-year Community Vision Towards - 2040, Themes and Directions.

FRAMEWORK AIMS:

- 01 To formalise an approach for the management of cultural heritage in the City of Marion.
- 02 To align the management of cultural heritage with the strategic objectives as outlined in the City of Marion's strategic plans.
- 03 To provide a framework for the development of an action plan to accomplish cultural heritage objectives that meets the needs of the wider community and reflects the diverse and rich cultural heritage within Marion.
- 04 To provide strategies for collaborative approaches with community and other relevant stakeholders in cultural heritage management.
- 05 To support community local history and provide access to a permanent record of moveable historical assets.
- 06 To provide a platform to achieve shared understanding, shared responsibility, shared solutions and balanced positive outcomes in respect of cultural heritage.

Outcomes & Future

When the Council and the community work together to identify and conserve its significant cultural heritage assets, they can reflect on the past and build stronger bonds for the future. Using best practice models, the framework will give a common direction for the implementation of sustainable cultural heritage management of the City of Marion's diverse cultural heritage assets.

Council will enable places of collection, preservation, interpretation and equitable access in the future. In 2020 Council recognised Marion Research Heritage Centre as the desired location for future re-development to achieve this, including a visionary gallery space, archival storage, research opportunities and as the hub for our Cultural Heritage, with potential for satellite projects throughout the community.

Our Cultural Heritage Background

We are situated 10km south of the Adelaide CBD, stretching 55 square kilometres from the Glenelg tramline in the north to Hallett Cove in the south. Our population has an estimated 94,000 residents and continues to show healthy growth.

We welcome new arrivals both from Australia and overseas. Our population is made up of people from many diverse backgrounds including, Africa, China, India, Vietnam, Europe and United Kingdom. New migration patterns to Marion show a steady increase in peoples from South Africa and Asia – predominantly China, Malaysia, Vietnam and the Philippines – India and Sri Lanka, with smaller numbers from Afghanistan and Iran.

City of Marion has a rich indigenous history and the lands on which City of Marion is now settled, has for thousands of years been inhabited by the Kaurna people of the Adelaide Plains who call it Warriparinga, a windy place by the creek. We recognise Australian Aboriginal culture is the longest continuing culture in the world.

Colonial settlement in the 1830s established the Marion Village, surveyed by Colonel William Light's company Light, Finniss & Co. Early industries centred on farming, vineyards, almond orchards and market gardens, which earned Marion the title 'the Garden of Adelaide'.

The City of Marion features a diversity of housing, topography, and cultures and has a significant industrial sector as well as significant natural and built heritage assets. Its natural attractions include numerous conservation and recreation parks, wetlands, rivers, and a rugged coastline. The area is renowned for its geological history and fossil remains. Our two vibrant cultural centres and community festivals and events are evidence of the active and growing community involvement in culture in the area.

What Do We Mean by Cultural Heritage?

Cultural heritage provides a link to the work and way of life of earlier generations, helps us to understand who we are today, and shapes what we will hand on to future generations. It can be movable, non movable, tangible and intangible.

Cultural Heritage can include:

- › Moveable cultural heritage: objects that people collect of historic, economic, social, artistic, technological or natural origin; books, maps, photographs, images, ephemera.
- › Migration patterns, settlement and cultural diversity, natural heritage sites, places and resources: ecosystems, landscapes, landmarks, water features, parks, gardens and trees.
- › Agricultural and industrial cultural heritage.
- › Built heritage: buildings, civil infrastructure.
- › Intangible heritage: beliefs, celebrations, customs.
- › Aboriginal heritage: the places, landscapes, artefacts, beliefs, stories and cultural practices valued by indigenous people.
- › Local histories: spoken, written, stories, memories, visual.
- › Family histories.
- › Cultural tourism, including cultural festivals, walking trails and events.
- › Artistic pursuits; music, theatre, literature, visual arts, traditional crafts, etc.

Key Principles of the Framework

The framework is underpinned by the philosophy of community participation, capacity building and engagement principles* as well as best practice principles used in Cultural Heritage Management. Community capacity building in Marion is a dynamic process that acknowledges and uses the strengths of communities to enable them to identify and support their own needs and aspirations. A key principle in cultural heritage management is the need to understand the importance or ‘significance’ of an asset before making decisions on how to manage it. Cultural heritage assets are worth preserving for many reasons, not least of which is to provide opportunities for future generations to share in and understand the dynamics of our culture and history.

Glossary of Terms

Artistic Pursuits – music, theatre, literature, visual arts, traditional crafts.

Cultural Heritage – an inheritance passed from one generation to another. This could include buildings, objects, traditions, stories and so on. As a concept, cultural heritage actually has strong associations with present cultural groups and has come to include both the tangible and intangible. Today, cultural heritage reflects our living culture, not just the past.

---

Cultural Heritage Significance – aesthetic, spiritual, historic, scientific or social value for past, present or future generations.

---

Cultural Place – a site, area, building or other work valued for its cultural heritage significance, together with associated contents and surrounds.

Cultural Heritage Plan – the cultural heritage framework plus an action plan and budget.

Framework – clarifies what you are trying to achieve and the approach you intend to use, without spelling out specific activities.

---

Heritage Place – the generic term for a Cultural Place, Cultural Group or Cultural Area.

---

Heritage Act – the Heritage Places Act 1993 (South Australia).

Intangible Cultural Heritage – the UNESCO Convention for the Safeguarding of the Intangible Cultural Heritage (UNESCO, 2003b), defines Intangible Cultural Heritage (ICH) as the “practices, representations, expressions, knowledge, skills – as well as the instruments, objects, artefacts and cultural spaces associated therewith – that communities, groups and, in some cases, individuals recognize as part of their cultural heritage”. The ICH is traditional and living at the same time. It is “transmitted from generation to generation”, and “constantly recreated by communities and groups in response to their environment, their interaction with nature and their history, and provides them with a sense of identity and continuity”. A unique feature of ICH is that it can only be defined as such when a community recognises it as part of its heritage. In other terms, there is nothing intrinsic in the expression or practice itself that would allow outsiders (governments, statisticians, researchers) to define it as intangible cultural heritage. The identification as well as definition of intangible cultural heritage therefore rests with the communities, groups, and, where appropriate, individuals that create, maintain and transmit such heritage.

Preservation – maintaining the fabric of the place, object or artefact in its existing state and retarding deterioration.
