Welcome new citizens

We provide a range of services to help people from around the world settle in to the City of Marion.

Our four neighbourhood centres run classes to support new arrivals, including spoken English, advice on living in Australia, and a homework club for children from diverse cultures.

Marion Libraries stock books and DVDs in a variety of languages.

For people who have difficulty understanding English, the Australian Government provides a Translation and Interpreting Service (TIS):

 131 450

Our neighbourhood centres

Our four neighbourhood centres provide a welcoming environment for people of all ages and abilities to learn, socialise, connect and have fun.

The centres host a range of programs and activities across the year, including dance, Tai chi, arts and crafts, cooking, technology and computing skills, and accredited adult learning classes.

Our four centres are located in:

- 25 Naldera Street, Glandore
- 139 Bradley Grove, Mitchell Park
- 245 Sturt Road, Sturt
- 34 Hissing Crescent, Trott Park.

Our history

The Kaurna people are the original inhabitants of Marion

The original inhabitants of Marion, the Kaurna people of the Adelaide Plains, were supported by the Sturt River and surrounding bushland which provided food and shelter.

The Kaurna people's name for the Sturt River is 'Warripari'. It means 'windy place by the river'. Warripari was an important travel route for the Kaurna people.

Visit the Living Kaurna Cultural Centre and learn more about the Kaurna people's strong connection to Warriparinga.

🏠 Warriparinga Way, Bedford Park.

A brief history of Council

The City of Marion covers an area of 55 km sq and has a population of about 95,650, which is expected to rise to 100,000 by 2031.

European settlers found the banks of this river inviting and in 1838, just two years after the colony was founded, the village of Marion was laid out by Colonel William Light's team. By the 1930s, Marion's almond groves, market gardens and vineyards had earned it the title "the Garden of Adelaide".

Following the Second World War, population growth, new houses and businesses transformed the rural landscape and Marion was proclaimed a city in 1953.

Marion Shopping Centre opened in 1968 and by the 1970s the suburbs of Hallett Cove, Sheidow Park and Trott Park were expanding in the south.

The 1980s and 1990s saw further growth and a move to higher density housing. Our modern city is now home to people from many cultures, with about 22 per cent of residents born overseas.

With landmarks including the Oaklands Wetland and Recreation Plaza, Warriparinga, the Tonsley Innovation District, Morphettville Racecourse and the SA Aquatic and Leisure Centre, City of Marion is a destination in itself.

What does Council do?

The City of Marion is a local government area managed by the Council which comprises a Mayor and 12 Councillors who are elected to office. The Council sets the overall direction for the development of the city and manages an annual budget of about $92 million. It decides how to allocate this budget to services and projects, including roads, footpaths, drainage, parks, libraries and neighbourhood centres. Council's revenue is predominantly provided by rates, which are paid by property owners. There are 68 councils in South Australia, and while they can largely decide which services to provide, some services, including planning, development and dog and cat management are mandatory. The other tiers of government in Australia are Federal and State.

More information about local government is available via the Local Government Association of South Australia (LGA).

 lga.sa.gov.au

Council's role

- Council staff assess most development applications, whilst some may be assessed by private certifiers or the Marion Council Assessment Panel (independent experts appointed by Council)
- restricted or major developments will be assessed by the State Government
- Council also has a role in assessing building applications, undertaking inspections and compliance.

Elections

In South Australia, whole of state council elections (called periodic elections) are held every four years. The most recent periodic council elections took place in November 2022. The next periodic council elections will take place in November 2026.

Free Kitchen Caddy

By collecting your food scraps in a kitchen caddy for recycling in your green organics bin, you are helping to reduce the amount of waste that goes to landfill, as well as the associated waste disposal costs to the community. So, this is great for both our environment and our economy.

All food scraps, cooked and raw, can be collected in your kitchen caddy and placed into the green organics bin along with your garden clippings. Every household is entitled to one free kitchen caddy and each financial year, households can collect 150 (two rolls of 75) compostable bags.

To find out more visit:

 marion.sa.gov.au/food-waste

Recycling electrical waste (E-waste)

E-waste is any electrical or electronic item that used a power plug or battery to run. All e-waste items contain heavy metals and are banned from landfill. This includes entertainment equipment, home appliances, electronic devices and power tools. For safe disposal you must either include the appliances in your hard rubbish booking (TVs and computers excluded) or take your e-waste to an e-waste drop off location near you for recycling.

Free hard waste collection

Each household can book two free hard rubbish collections of up to one cubic metre of material per financial year, which you can now book online via the My Marion customer portal. Hard waste can include white goods such as fridges and washing machines, electrical household appliances, furniture, bed frames, and mattresses. It is illegal to put hard waste on the verge without booking a collection. For more info visit:

 marion.sa.gov.au/hard-rubbish

To book your hard waste collection:

Registration for your furry friends

All dogs three months or older must be registered with the City of Marion within 14 days of ownership. It is important to register your dog each year so if it becomes lost, we can contact you to reunite you with your pet.

If you have moved to the City of Marion from another council area you are required to transfer your registration within 14 days. Dogs must be re-registered by 31 August each year.

 dogsandcatsonline.com.au

Cats

Cats must be de-sexed and microchipped. To reduce the likelihood of cats causing a nuisance or harming native wildlife, we encourage owners to keep them indoors at night.

 marion.sa.gov.au/cats

Barking dogs

Dogs can create an annoyance or nuisance to nearby neighbours by barking. When this situation occurs, it is primarily a dispute between two individuals and may be resolved by having a conversation with the owner of the barking dog to make them aware of the issue.

To assist you, we have a few resources available online, including information on how to make a formal complaint:

 marion.sa.gov.au/dogs-complaints

Home is where your cat is

In August 2022, we introduced seven by-laws. These by-laws outline the local government land, permits and penalties and rules around moveable signs, dogs, animal management, roads and cats. Most of these by-laws are already in effect, and by 1 January 2023, by-law 6 and by-law 7 will be fully implemented. The following 'need-to-know' guides, highlight some changes that might affect you.

By-law 6 Cat Curfew

Residents told us we should create a new cat by-law.

From 1 January 2023, you will be responsible for keeping your cat at your premises between 8pm and 7am. This will protect our local cats and wildlife, and reduce nuisance complaints.

By-law 7 Roosters and Peacocks

Council permission will be required to keep, or permit to be kept, a prescribed animal on any premises. This is to prevent nuisance issues within the City of Marion.

Environment and climate action

Environment report card

Marion Council is committed to environmental sustainability by providing leadership and working with our community to create a greener, more sustainable city.

Embedding environmental considerations into our operations is one key role we can play in the bigger picture of caring for our environment. Marion's annual Environment Report Card is a snapshot of the key initiatives delivered over a 12-month period.

 marion.sa.gov.au/report-card

Urban Trees

Urban trees are beneficial to our environment, wildlife, health, community and economy. Take a look at our interactive map to see how many trees are in your street, how much water our trees require, future planting locations, species planted and more.

 marion.sa.gov.au/trees

Coastsnap

The City of Marion is the first South Australian council to join the CoastSnap community beach monitoring initiative. When you visit Hallett Cove or Marino, you can join thousands of others visiting Australian coastlines to help measure how our beaches erode and recover over time due to changing ocean conditions.

Visit any one of our five CoastSnap stations to measure the shoreline and amount of sand on the beach by taking a photo with your smartphone and sharing it through the CoastSnap app or on social media. Your snap will add to a community database which can help to improve how we manage treasured coastal environments.

 marion.sa.gov.au/coastsnap

Volunteering

Our local communities are evolving with an increased awareness, desire to be heard, and a higher expectation to be involved in issues which may impact their social, cultural, economic or environmental wellbeing. If you would like an opportunity to be involved in environmental community projects such as the Urban Tree Warrior Program, Local Conservation Groups, Citizen Science opportunities and more, visit the 'Take action locally' section of our website.

 marion.sa.gov.au/environment

Climate action

The City of Marion is committed to taking action to reduce the impacts of climate change locally and globally. Just some of the ways we can tackle climate change include improving energy efficiency, the use of renewable energy, reducing carbon emissions, planting trees, and efficient waste and water management. When you see our City of Marion Climate Action logos, you can be assured it's just another way that the City of Marion is taking action on climate change.

Outdoor workforce services

City of Marion's Outdoor Workforce team provides a range of services to keep our community safe, our spaces enjoyable, and streets looking great. Services include:

- removing graffiti
- mowing and reserve maintenance
- tree planting
- tree maintenance
- verges

- streetscapes
- line marking
- collecting hard rubbish
- and much more.

If you need to report an issue or request a service in your area, you can do so online via our My Marion portal.

Caring for our community

Positive Ageing and Inclusion

Providing a range of services for older residents, the Positive Ageing and Inclusion program helps support independence, confidence and the capacity for people to live in their own home. Services can include:

- minor home maintenance
- gardening
- cleaning
- home delivered meals
- the community bus
- social groups, fitness classes, information sessions, wellbeing workshops

If you are 65 or over and wish to access any of these services throughout the City of Marion you will need to register with My Aged Care:

Maintaining your property

Council offers a range of services and grants across the year to help you with maintaining your property, and being proud to live in the City of Marion.

Tree maintenance

Many regulated or significant trees are located on private property and we understand the challenges residents face to look after these magnificent trees. The Regulated Tree Maintenance Fund program recognises that there is much community interest in preserving these trees and provides financial assistance to enable this.

These trees offer a range of benefits to the community, support a diverse range of wildlife, provide a connection to our history and contribute to the character of our neighbourhoods.

 marion.sa.gov.au/tree-fund

Trolley removal

Abandoned trolleys are a safety hazard and an eyesore. They are often found blocking footpaths and dumped in parks and waterways around shopping centres. If you would like to report a dumped trolley, we have a full list of contact details, so you can easily reach out to the relevant retailers within the City of Marion.

 marion.sa.gov.au/trolleys

Artificial turf on verges prohibited

Natural landscaping on verges creates a healthier environment for everyone. It allows for rainwater to be absorbed into the soil, provides habitat for birds and insects, reduces soil erosion and makes our streets better spaces to walk and cycle. The use of artificial turf on verges has negative impacts on the environment. For this reason, its use on verges has been prohibited by Council.

A Verge Incentive Fund is being trialled, providing a rebate to encourage more residents to beautify the verge area.

Developing your property?

Plan SA – applications portal

All planning and development matters fall under the State Government's planning system, PlanSA. This means housing density is essentially decided under state law.

If you intend to carry out any form of development, you must lodge a development application with PlanSA, and receive development approval - which is made up of planning consent and building consent (and land division consent if applicable). Once consents are granted, council is then able to issue a development approval.

To find out more visit the PlanSA website:

Council roads

Did you know that the Department for Infrastructure and Transport are responsible for all main roads? Council manages the maintenance of all other roads in the City of Marion, including repairing potholes, footpaths, street sweeping, street lighting and more. If you have any Council-related issues to report or a service to request, please visit the My Marion customer portal.

Community engagement and events

The City of Marion is committed to engaging as widely and actively as possible with its diverse communities, through a range of community consultations.

Well planned community engagements, activities and events enhance a vibrant local democracy and support the development of ongoing relationships with the people who visit, live, work and play in the City of Marion.

 marion.sa.gov.au/engagement

For many years, we have been involving our community in decision-making, and offering ways for you to stay connected to what is happening in your city. We deliver extensive communications and engagement programs aimed to be inclusive, because we believe our city will be better if we work together to make decisions.
