Behind the Doors of Glandore Community Centre: South Australian History Festival

Glandore Community Centre is filled with the history from the many children who passed through its doors. Built as a girls reformatory in 1890 it has served as an industrial school, children's home, boys home and Aboriginal school. Today it operates as a welcoming Community Hub and opens its doors so you can explore. View site plans, news articles, photos, hear stories, tour the buildings and park like grounds and enjoy a fresh baked morning tea.
