Behind the Doors of Glandore Community Centre

South Australian History Festival

Glandore Community Centre is filled with the history from the many children whom passed through it's doors. Built as a girls reformatory in 1890 it has served as an industrial school, children's home, Boys home, Aboriginal school and more. Today it operates as a welcoming Community Hub and opens it's doors so you can explore. View site plans, news articles and photos, hear stories from the children and tour the buildings and park like grounds.

If you have a story to share please send via email to glandore@marion.sa.gov.au or send us your contact details to the same address and we will be in touch.
